

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A chair accessory device comprises first and second tote bags, and a coupling panel coupling the bags together. Each tote bag includes an inner and an outer panel. The coupling panel includes opposed first and second, each end attached to one of the bags together. A first shoulder strap is coupled with the first bag and a second shoulder strap is coupled with the second bag. The device further includes bag attachment structure for selectively securing the first and second bags in close proximity to each other.